Vocational Education and Training

Empowering people with "skills for life"

26th Annual EfVET International Conference
Work and Education aligned to the future
25 to 28 October 2017, Thessaloniki, Greece

Joao SANTOS
Deputy Head of Unit
European Commission,
Directorate General for Employment, Social Affairs and Inclusion
Unit E3, Vocational training, Apprenticeships and Adult learning
1. Apprenticeships: Quality and Efficiency proposal of a Framework for Quality and Effective Apprenticeships

2. Joint qualifications in VET
   trans-national cooperation to develop Joint VET programmes

3. ErasmusPRO
   policy drive for long-duration mobility

4. Vocational Skills Week
   raising attractiveness through excellence and quality
Two out of three apprentices move straight into jobs after finishing their education. With today’s new framework, we define what makes apprenticeships shine. Once adopted, the framework will ensure that both learners and employers benefit from quality apprenticeships.

Short description of the event/activity (in English)
The seminar is an annual event. It is about the connection between VET and HE and the possibilities for improving it - and increasing the chance of studying. This year it is about identifying the process by which the Dutch government determines the policy for VET from year to year. This must be done because the labor market always sets other and new requirements for VET graduates and the competencies that need to be adapted. But that also means that the progression route to the Universities of Applied Sciences must be changed. The question is how they are involved and then how they adapt their own programs. During this event we will try to get insight into it.
